OFFICIAL TRAIL RIDE JULY 30th—AUGUST 2, 1931

The combination of circumstances which in 1931 effected a considerable reduction in travel did not, however, prevent the eighth annual Trail Ride from being successful, although many of the regular members were unable to participate. Their interest, expressed by wire and letter to the secretary incidentally, proved again the indelible stamp the Canadian Rockies ever leave on those who have enjoyed the innumerable attractions of the trail.

As outlined in previous bulletins, three camps were made on the Banff—Stoney Creek—Block Mountain—Baker Creek route swinging north in a circle and returning to the Banff—Lake Louise highway, where the Pow-Wow was held.

The morning of the ride saw the usual excitement among the riders as they were whisked by motor from the Banff Springs Hotel to the corral at Lake Minnewanka, saw the usual eagerness to be off among the peaks where the sun tempered the breath of the glaciers, seemingly anxious to reduce them to a state of complete subjugation, the glaciers, of course, protesting tearfully.

With the distribution of saddle and baggage tickets, the confusion changed to orderly movement and the march into the interior began with the first-timers twisting and turning in their saddles at every bend in the trail. Cameras were drawn forth in preparation for the winter's enjoyment of the numerous incidents and beauty spots, the sun beamed and the Stoney Creek trail wove and twisted under the sure-footed mountain ponies.

Stops for the adjustment of stirrups, photographs, closer inspection of a new flower and scraps of conversation over the heads of one or two intervening riders, short gallops to close up the file, the mention of hunger and the sight of tents under a bluff beside Stoney Creek brought the first day's ride to an end, a jaunt of ten or forty miles according to one's appetite but in reality between ten and twelve.

Lunch was served on a counter constructed on one side of the canvas-covered kitchen—an endless array of sandwiches, fruit and other food eaten while one's eyes roved up and down the laden board in search of the next delicacy—saddles were piled and those striving for their first button watched with amusement the antics of ponies wearing hobbles.

After an investigation of the immediate vicinity, supper was welcomed, and soon in the gathering dusk around a roaring fire the priceless trail organ throbbed and wheezed under the magic caress of Mr. Key, while far off in the valley the notes of the bells on the horses brought to mind the peaceful rhythm of Evangeline.

Breakfast on the morning of the second day was naturally punctuated with remarks ranging from the impressions gained by the younger element out under canvas for the first time to decided opinions about food . . . during which the old-timers ate steadily in silence with a watchful eye on the flapjack pan smoking over the coals, as the cook poured out his years of experience in one gleaming circle after another.

Coming up the Valley to Badger Pass

The ride moved in an easy line up the valley, preceded as usual by a guide with the lunch. The trail soon closed in on the party as the path led through the trees opening at reluctant intervals to disclose to straining riders some particular choice little bit of scenery, while Block Mountain, impressive in its grandeur and dominating the entire district with its 9,653 feet of natural beauty, approached and finally disappeared as the trail jealously carried the riders out of sight . . . but only temporarily, for camp had been well chosen where the trail wound into a clearing beside Cascade River with Block Mountain towering into the sky, seemingly but a few hundreds yards away.

A deer emerged from the trees to investigate, and cameras which had been registering various phases of camp life were hastily aimed at the visitor. The guides as efficiently as ever broke out the teepees, supper was followed by another camp-fire and again the scent of boughs rose in the teepees where the tiny fires flickered invitingly.

This year, Billy George Brewster, aged six, with his legs sticking out as he rode, won the admiration of the riders as, day after day, he maintained his place without complaint, while, as in former years, the services of the doctor and dentist in the party were not required.

The third morning saw a more interesting type of country as, descending to Johnstone Creek, the trail turned sharply to the right past imposing glaciers behind Castle Mountain and rose gradually up the valley, where a stop was made on Badger Pass with Baker Lake in the distance, behind which the last camp was to be pitched. The ride began on Thursday, July 30, and already few riders could remember what day it was. The Pow-Wow was to be held on Sunday evening following, and in the four day's riding about 52 miles were to be covered. This lazy travelling gave everyone opportunities to slide from their horses to enjoy a more leisurely view of the vast panorama on every hand, to examine the profusion of mountain flowers on the benches and to pause beside some waterfall where the warm sun through the trees did its best to lengthen one's stay.

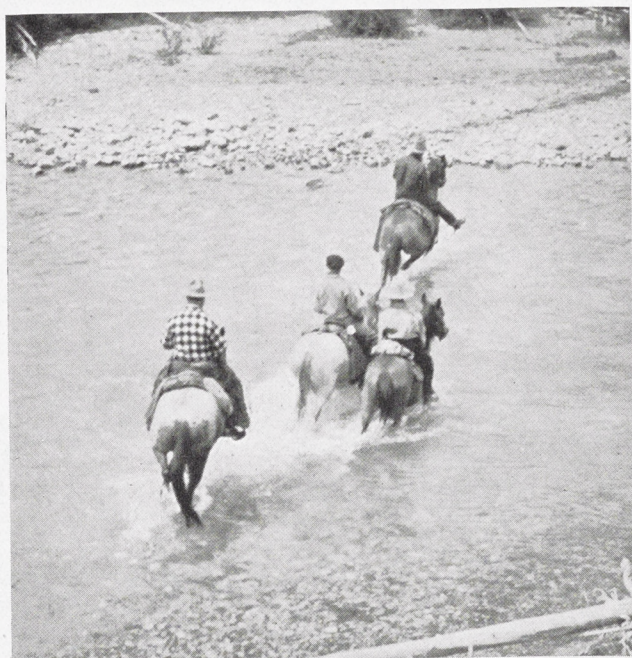

Down the pass, past Baker Lake, up over a bench and down again into the valley where a meadow surrounded with soft woods suddenly appeared . . . and the Baker Creek Camp had been reached. This camp was entirely interesting inasmuch as meals were served beside a tiny stream a few hundred yards above the camp and any hungry rider who toiled up the slope arrived hungry indeed. This camp, too, reflected one's ideas of what a trail camp should be—a sheltered meadow with no elaborate preparation beyond the measures taken by the guides to insure complete comfort.

It was on the evening of arrival at this secluded spot that the otherwise genial president, who was in charge of the ride, exhibited some concern at the delayed arrival of one of the riders who had taken advantage of the sunshine to snatch a siesta on a flower-strewn bench, and this same concern was quite evident during the entire ride in other ways, resulting in many compliments being paid Colonel Moore and guides for their part in insuring such a successful outing.

Leaving Baker Lake, the trail proceeded down Baker Creek, gradually rising along a ridge with the stream far below, until some distance from the Lake Louise-Banff road, when it turned down, and in a last flurry of hoofs, the riders turned into the Pow-Wow clearing for a rest and supper. The Pow-Wow was again not only impressive, but was proof of the intense interest existing in this annual outing. A contingent of Lake Windermere Ranch girls accompanied by Dr. Cooke and Miss Cutler, together with many others from Lake Louise and Banff, who for various reasons did not take the ride, arrived to renew acquaintances.

The entire executive body was re-elected for 1932, the next ride through the beautiful Mount Assiniboine country, which will attract an undoubtedly large number next year, was discussed in detail, and following the presentation of a prize to Miss Betty Ullrich of Wilmette, Illinois, as the most efficient trail rider, speeches by those guiding the destiny of the mountain parks, etc., the party broke up to return to Banff by bus, each busy with memories and unwilling to return to such irritating things as electric lights, telephones, trains and tablecloths.

THE KING AND QUEEN OF SIAM JOIN THE TRAIL RIDERS

When His Majesty the King of Siam came with his Queen to Banff this summer, he had not yet heard of the Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies. But on the occasion of one of his first rides, His Majesty noticed the Trail Riders' button on Jim Brewster's hat and at once asked questions. A copy of our Constitution was presented and evidently read to good advantage, for during the next ride the King stated that he intended to cover, before he left, sufficient mileage to qualify for membership. Maps were studied, and it was found that a ride to Floe Lake (the second camping site on last year's official Trail Ride) would make with previous mileage a total of fifty-six miles. Next morning Colonel Phil. A. Moore made the formal investiture in the presence of Vice-President James I. Brewster and Secretary-Treasurer J. M. Gibbon, with Harry Pollard as official photographic recorder. Colonel Moore made a happy little speech, to which His Majesty replied, saying that he liked this trail riding and hoped to qualify for still higher honours.

This intention was carried out, although if the date originally set for the departure of the Royal party had been kept, His Majesty would have been twelve miles short of the necessary hundred. However, the stay was extended for two days, and on Tuesday, September second, a brisk ride of fifteen miles enabled not only His Majesty to gain the coveted silver button, but also enabled Her Majesty Queen Rambai Barni to claim membership and the fifty mile bronze brooch.

In view of the interest taken in our Order by these distinguished visitors to the Canadian Rockies, the Executive Committee of the Trail Riders passed a resolution making both the King and Queen honorary members, supplementing this resolution by the presentation of a complete set of buttons and brooches as a souvenir of their visit. Not to be outdone, His Majesty took out life membership for both the Queen and himself.

Other members of the Royal party naturally became interested and the following qualified for membership:

His Royal Highness Prince Chirasakti.

Mom Rajavongs Smaksman Kridakara (Assistant Private Secretary).

Mom Chao Ajjah Chakranandhu.

Bongs Amara Kridakara (Steeg)—holding the 100 mile button.

S. Jotikasthira (Valet to His Majesty).

Sergeant W. Grennan, R.C.M.P., Vancouver, B.C.

Oscar Wullimann (Waiter to His Majesty).

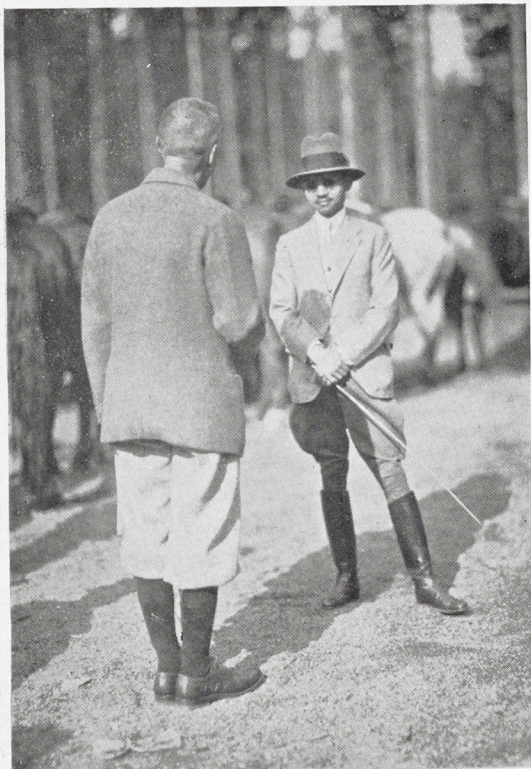

During one of the discussions as to mileage, it was realized that Oscar, one of the assistants to the head waiter at the Banff Springs Hotel who had ridden with the party to supervise the food supplies for the picnic luncheons, was also qualified. His Majesty, familiar with the Constitution, referred to the clause that membership is open to all "irrespective of age, sex, creed, colour or profession", whereupon a claim was made for a bronze button for Oscar, and of course duly awarded.

The King of Siam is absolute monarch over some 12,000,000 souls, in as picturesque and prosperous a kingdom as can be found on the globe. His counsellors are all Princes of the blood, and his Government departments of his own making. His English education, including his studies at Oxford and at the Ecole de Guerre in France, have done much to fit His Majesty for the great task he is still carrying out: that of placing his country on a sound modern political and economic footing.

H.M. Queen Rambai Barni is his only wife in a religion which endorses polygamy. Both the monarchs are "moderns" in the best sense of the word. In dress and deportment they compare enviably with their peers in western nations. Both are accomplished linguists, lovers of travel, study and sport.
